Listen and read. Circle T for true or F for false.

Hi, everyone! What’s going on? I need your advice. I’ve got this problem with my mum. My mum has volunteered for every dance, every field trip and every fundraising activity we’ve had at school so far this year. Sometimes I like it. But you know something? Children make fun of me because she’s always here. It’s embarrassing. I know she thinks the school needs her help but I need her help, too… to stay away. What should I do?

OK, ninja_fl_y. I understand you. It can be really annoying to have your mum at school all the time. You should tell her how you feel. Ask her to stop volunteering for everything and stop coming to school so often. Take my advice. I had the same problem with my mum and it worked for me.

I agree with free_mind09. You should tell your mum that it bothers you when she comes to school so often. But I don’t think she should stop volunteering. I’ll bet she likes it and the school needs it. You should be glad she wants to help. You should tell her that she’s a brilliant mum but that you would like her to volunteer at school less often. Think positively!

1. Ninja_fl_y’s mum volunteers too much at his school.
   T  F

2. Both free_mind09 and 2good_for_u think ninja_fl_y should tell his mum to stop volunteering.
   T  F

3. Free_mind09 didn’t have the same problem with her mum.
   T  F

4. 2good_for_u thinks volunteering is good.
   T  F

Answer the question.
If your mum volunteered at your school, would you feel the same way as ninja_fl_y? Why/Why not?
Listen and read. Circle the correct answers.

Jim: Hi, Ollie. Have you met the new exchange student yet?
Ollie: No. Why?
Jim: She’s from Finland and she’s really nice!
Ollie: Nice, huh? Is she clever, too?
Jim: Very clever. I’ve talked to her.
Ollie: In English?
Jim: Of course in English. But maybe I’ll start learning Finnish now.
Ollie: You’re crazy. You haven’t even learnt English yet and you are English.
Jim: Finnish is different. I’m sure I’ll learn it fast. I’m motivated!
Ollie: Yeah, yeah, yeah.

1 Ollie has seen / hasn’t seen the exchange student.
2 Jim has already talked / hasn’t talked to the exchange student.
3 The exchange student speaks / doesn’t speak English.
4 Jim wants / doesn’t want to speak Finnish to the exchange student.

Look at 7. Circle the correct answers.

1 When Ollie says “Nice, huh?”, “huh” means that he’s:
   a not interested.       b interested.
2 “You’re crazy” means:

Read. When do pupils in Poland start taking tests?

School in Poland

Do you like taking tests? Then you wouldn’t like going to primary school in Poland. Pupils only take one official test, at the end of Year 6 and they don’t get marks for the first three years of school. Would you like that? That doesn’t mean that pupils don’t learn. They are busy learning about many subjects. In Poland, pupils must study the following subjects: Art, modern foreign languages (like German or English), Gym (P.E.), Music, History, Civics, Science, Maths, Technology and Computer Science. They have a lot of these lessons every day. Also, each week pupils take part in various after-school activities, such as sports, theatre or computer clubs. How many subjects do you study? Has your school got any interesting after-school clubs? Have you ever joined one?

The school day is shorter in Poland, too. A typical day starts at 8:00 and finishes at 12:00 or 1:00. That gives pupils in Poland more free time than pupils in say, Spain or the UK. They don’t complain about that! Would you?

15 Read 14 again and complete the sentences with the words in the box.

- daily
- free time
- timetable
- typical

1. Most Polish pupils are happy with a shorter school day and more _______________.
2. Each pupil has a lot of different lessons _________________.
3. A ________________ school day in Poland is 4 or 5 hours long.
4. A school ________________ in Poland includes Computer Science and Civics.

16 How does school in Poland compare with your school?

1. Write one sentence about how it’s different.

__________________________________________________________________________

__________________________________________________________________________

2. Write one sentence about how it’s similar.

Read. How many pupils are there in an average Finnish class?

Education in Finland, China and Poland is different in some ways but pupils in all these countries do well in achievement tests. Finland has got the highest grades in Science, Maths and Reading, yet pupils go to school for only four hours a day on average. That’s quite amazing! Most pupils in Poland are at school a little longer. In China, children are at school from 8 to 11 hours a day.

Class size is also different. In Finland, classes are small. The average class size is 18. Classes in Poland have got about 25 pupils. In China, they’re much larger. The way the school day is structured is different, too. Pupils in China and Poland follow timetables but in Finland, pupils decide what they want to do each day. The teacher gives them choices and the pupils decide.

Pupils in these countries don’t do a lot of homework. Is homework important? People have got very different opinions on this topic. The interesting thing is that pupils in these countries learn a lot without doing a lot of homework. They’ve got more time to enjoy learning about things outside of the classroom. Do you think that’s the reason their test marks are so high?

If you could choose subjects to study, which would you choose? Why?
In an opinion paragraph, you share your opinion about a topic. To write an opinion paragraph, follow these steps:

- Write your opinion. Use your opinion as the title of your opinion paragraph. For example:

  Longer School Days Will Not Improve Grades

- To begin your opinion paragraph, rewrite the title of your paragraph as a question. Then answer the question with your opinion:

  Will longer school days improve grades? In my opinion, they won’t.

- Next, write reasons for your opinion:

  Pupils will be too tired after a longer school day to do their homework. They’ll have less time to work on school projects and study for tests.

- Then, write suggestions:

  I think offering after-school study periods for pupils who need extra help is a better idea. Teachers could also organise more group projects. That way, pupils could help each other while they complete assignments.

- Finally, write a conclusion:

  In my opinion, offering extra help to pupils and organising more group projects are better ideas than having longer school days. Longer school days might even cause pupils to get even lower grades because they’ll be tired and more stressed.

19 Choose one of the school issues below.
- Pupils should/shouldn’t use mobile phones at school.
- It’s important/not important to use computers in the classroom.

State your opinion here: ____________________________________________________________
